OPIOID ANTAGONIST

Narcan nasal spray easy to use

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

Your reporter has been trained to administer Narcan, a life-saving opioid antagonist delivered to suspected overdose victims via nasal inhaler.

There was no special class to take. I didn't have to go to the police station. I have actually never even touched Narcan in real life. But I could use it if I had to.

"It's like a Flonase if you just push," Medical Officer Paul Wilson explained via phone. "I just trained you how to do it; there's no learning curve."

That means it's not just easier for first responders to save lives, but for friends and family members, who are often the true first responders in these situations. Having an option that doesn't require training or assembly makes it that much easier for them to save a loved one's life.

Narcan isn't enough, though. It's like CPR: while you may be able to do something to help the situation right away, if you suspect that someone has overdosed on opioids, you still have to co-valedictorians, Olivia Arnold and Julia Stanganelli, delivered from the Music Circus stage at graduation on Saturday, June 4th.

Life is not a race, but a team sport. These were the parting words of the class of 2016

It's clear that these words aren't just a nice quote to them, but an actual life philosophy.

Being named valedictorian is seen as an individual accomplishment; a victory scored in competition against other students. But Arnold and Stanganelli, whose

SAVE THE DATES

Festival forecast

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

When we ask readers to tell us their favorite thing about Cohasset, the two most popular answers are "the beach" and "the Arts Festival." There's a good reason the festival ties with the beach, and it just keeps getting better every year.

"This year, we have something for everyone, and there's something every night," said Art Center director Sarah Hannan. "We're doing more than usual. It's usually a lot more low-key." She and Assistant Director Kristen Sherman hope that adding new and different programs each year will continue to draw new people to the artists.

The festivities kick off on Thursday night, June 16th, with a ticketed, sneak-peek event in the feature tent. The Rockin' Preview Party will feature 40 limited edition photos by rock 'n' roll photographer Ron Pownall. The photographer himself will be there to share the stories behind them.

Pownall has been taking pictures at Boston concerts since some of the nation's biggest acts were just teenagers. He's done album artwork for Aerosmith, Tom Petty, the Rolling Stones, and more. He even has a picture of young Governor Charlie Baker in a mosh pit.

Pownall's photos will be available for sale. But they'll only be there for one night; come Friday, the feature tent will house different guests and speakers throughout the festival. Guests of the Rockin' Preview Party also get first dibs on items in the main tent before it's opened to the public on Friday.

Hors d'oeuvres for the preview party will be provided by South Shore restaurants and caterers Bia Bistro, Island Creek Oysters, Crow's Landing, the Hawthorne, the Townshend, Row 34, and the

MEDICAL MALPRACTICE

Diagnostic errors are among the most common mistakes made by U.S. doctors, causing between 80,000 and 160,000 deaths annually, according to Johns Hopkins researchers. Data from over 350,000 malpractice claims made in this country over the last 25 years shows that the majority of the claims were related to diagnostic errors. Medical malpractice law provides patients with a way to recover compensation for any harm, injury, or death that results from substandard treatment. The error may occur as a result of nothing having been done (an act of omission) or a negligent act. Physicians are legally responsible for harm or injuries resulting from deviations from the quality of care that a competent doctor would normally provide in a similar situation.

Have you or a loved one suffered due to a doctor's bad decisions or negligence? At the Law Offices of Phillips & Donahue, our experienced lawyers have spent years dealing a wide variety of malpractice suits and we can get you the settlement that you deserve. We are happy to take this sort of case on a contingency basis. That means we don't get paid until you win. Let us help you and your family to get the money that you need. Call (781) 834-4500 or email your questions to phill569@aol.com. Our office is located at 769 Plain St., Marshfield.

HINT: Blood thinners account for about seven percent of all medication errors in hospitalized patients.

POLICE BEAT

Four-car chain reaction crash on 3A

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

In the middle of the Memorial Day Parade on Monday (May 30), police were called to a four-car crash in the northbound lane on Route 3A near Stop & Shop. Three of the vehicles involved ended up needing to be towed away and one of the drivers was cited, police said.

Around 11:25 a.m., a 2007 Chevrolet sedan, operated by a 67-year-old Scituate man, rear-ended a 2007 BMW SUV, operated by a 64-year-old Cohasset woman, sending the BMW into the back of a 2014 Jeep SUV, operated by a 63-year-old Marshfield man.

The Scituate man in the Chevy that caused the accident then backed up into a 2011 Audi sedan, operated by a 63-year-old Lincoln man. The driver of the Chevy was cited for following too closely on a state highway.

The driver of the BMW and her passenger, who was a 67-year-old Scituate woman, complained of back and neck pain and were transported to the hospital. The only car not towed was the Audi, police said.

OUI charge

A 50-year-old E. Walpole woman was arrested for drunken driving on Saturday (June 4) around 1 p.m. in the village where she had made an illegal left turn into one of the angled parking spots by Dependable Cleaners. Police had a report minutes earlier about a 2003 Honda Accord with a vanity plate being driven erratically on Border Street and spotted the car as it drove into the village.

The driver smelled of alcohol, had slurred speech and failed a series of field sobriety tests. Charged with operating under the influence of liquor and negligent operation was Jean M. Armstrong, 50, of 4 Grace Memorial Dr. #4, E. Walpole.

2-car MVA

Around 1:20 p.m. on Monday (May 30), police were called to a two-car accident on Chief Justice Cushing Highway (3A) by Hingham Lumber. A 44-year-old Scituate woman driving a 2012 Chevrolet SUV has slowed in front of Hingham Lumber for a car that was turning into the parking lot when the SUV was hit from behind by a 2010 Acura sedan, operated by a 48-year-old Hingham woman. There were no tows and no reported injuries. The driver of the Acura was cited for following too closely on a state highway, police said.

Left scene

Witnesses said a yellow Penske truck that side-swiped a pole, breaking it in half, left the scene near 159 Beechwood Street on Saturday (June 4) around 1:20 p.m. and headed toward the village.

Police located the rental truck at the Cohasset Sailing Club; the operator was working as a caterer at a wedding being held there.

The truck had heavy side and roof damage and paint transfer from the pole. The driver was a 34-year-old Scituate man who is being summonsed to court for leaving the scene of an accident after causing property damage, failure to drive in marked lanes and for not having a license in his possession.

No drinking on Sandy Beach

At the request of the Sandy Beach Association, police will be stepping up enforcement to ensure there is no alcohol on Sandy Beach. Apparently, there has been a problem on Friday evenings when beach-goers order pizzas and consume alcohol. Public drinking is illegal, and police will be enforcing the open container laws.

Child driving

Police were unable to verify that an 11-year-old girl was operating a car in the parking lot off Elm Street (nearly behind the Legion Hall) with an adult woman in the vehicle on Monday evening (May 30) around 6:50 p.m.

Two of the girl's friends, a 9-year-old girl and an 11-year-old boy, saw the incident and wanted to report it. The School Resource Officer was notified to follow-up.

Rattlesnake

A man, reporting a rattlesnake down by the pool patio off Sohier Street, killed the reptile and brought it to the police station on Tuesday morning (May 31). Police checked with the animal control officer and the snake was not a rattlesnake. There is a type of rattlesnake in Massachusetts, called the Timber Rattlesnake, which is an endangered species but they are very few in number and live in the mountainous region of the state.

MV stop/tow

An officer stopped a 2012 Jeep Grand Cherokee on Tuesday morning (May 31) on Hull Street because the plates had expired. The registration was non-renewable so the SUV was towed and the driver, a 30-year-old Hull woman, was issued a $105 fine.

ID theft

A 39-year-old Cohasset man went to the station on Wednesday (June 1) to file a police report because he had been notified by his credit card company that a $4800 loan had been taken out in his name. He had no knowledge of the transaction. Police gave him an identity theft packet and he will not be responsible for the loan.

MV stop/tow

An officer stopped a 2015 Infiniti SUV on S. Main Street on Wednesday morning (June 1) because the plates had expired. As it turned out the driver, who is a 41-year-old Cohasset woman, had an expired license as well. The vehicle was towed and she is being summonsed to court on the charges of unlicensed operation and operating an unregistered motor vehicle, police said.

License suspended

Last week, police notified a 66-year-old Cohasset woman who had been involved in a fatal pedestrian accident in Brockton that the Registry of Motor Vehicles had suspended her driver's license as an immediate threat. Cohasset served the paperwork on behalf of the RMV and Brockton police. The woman has a right to a Registry hearing on the suspension.

Car hits pole

On Thursday night (June 2) around 11:24 p.m., police responded to a single car accident on Pleasant Street. A 25-year-old Cohasset woman in a 2009 Jeep Wrangler had swerved to avoid an animal in the road and hit a utility pole. She then went to a friend's house to call police. The car ended up having to be towed from the friend's house. National Grid was called to repair the cracked pole.

Window broken

Police believe a rock or other object that had been kicked up from landscaping equipment broke the window of a rented 2015 Toyota sedan on Jerusalem Road on Friday morning (June 3). The 57-year-old Cohasset woman who had rented the car reported the incident.

Update from your Water Department

The following is from Water Commissioner Leonora Jenkins:

Every 15 years, the MA DEP has cities and towns renewing water withdrawal permits in which are issued the maximum amount of water people can use from available resources. Guidelines are also included as to eliminating unaccounted for water (treated water that is leaking from pipes between the water plant and individual meters), water conservation methods and restrictions for drought situations.

After working 10 years to come up with an equitable solution, MA DEP under their Water Management Act has set the new guidelines for cities and towns to be 65 gallons per person per day. For Cohasset that means we are being reduced from 80 in our current permit.

Since Cohasset, due to good planning in the 1970's, has an abundant water supply compared to many towns in the state, the Water Commissioners had meetings with the DEP to try to alleviate some water restrictions. Through our discussions, it was realized that past Water Boards have been very pro active in implementing the water conservation directives from DEP which have placed us in a good position with many credits plus we are almost at the 10 percent unaccounted for water target. Taking all of the work done in our system into account, DEP has indicated that our current withdrawal plan, which automatically triggers restrictions according to our resources, meets their requirements.

The new Cohasset Water Permit is available for public comment for 30 days beginning on June 8th at [http://web1.env.state.ma.us/EEA/emepa/emonitor.aspx]

Unaccounted for water

The Water Department is actively looking for any leaks in the system through our annual leak detection survey. This is a very important part of water conservation in the statewide Water Management Act where the goal is 10 percent or less.

The survey is conducted on all of our water lines in the street using specialized leak detection equipment. We ask that homeowners assist in this endeavor by reporting any unusual water in their yards between their hookup in the street and their meter, if they hear the sound of water running continuously, or if they notice any change in their water pressure. All of these could be a sign of a leak.

Besides helping with water conservation, eliminating unaccounted for water is a tool in keeping our water prices affordable.

Pollinators do amazing work

By Sandra Durant
Cohasset Garden Club

It's hard to believe, but this is the fourth spring "Bee a Pollinator Pal Week" has introduced the second grade class at the Osgood Elementary School to the importance of Pollinators in the environment and, in particular, to their contribution to the well being of everyone on our planet. There is not a plant that directly or indirectly produces the food that we consume, from ice cream to meat to fruit to the on-trend Kale — that we are all conscientiously trying to include in our diets — that would be available to us without the help of the myriad of flying insects, birds, and bats that innocently transfer pollen from one flower to the next as they go about their daily life.

Here is a quick look at what the students see during the kickoff assembly held by the South Shore Science Center's naturalists — the captivating video "The Beauty of Pollination" [<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MQjszdkOwuU>] from the Disney film, "Wings of Life. In the video you will see the seductive love dance between flowers and pollinators that sustains the fabric of our life and is the mystical keystone event where the animal and plant worlds intersect for just a few absolutely essential moments.

But all these wonderful pollinators don't do this alone. They have very important co-conspirators in this magical enterprise — endless small insects that are always so amazingly busy carrying bits of soil, dead bugs or leaves hundreds of times bigger than they are; seemingly frantic as they race along — some looking like tightrope artists disguised as dirt clumps, while others might be marching in a row upside down on a fallen blade of grass. But there they are, in all shapes, colors, and sizes finding a way to carry and eventually eat their found treasure.

And life underground is as busy as it is above ground. All of this "eat and be eaten" activity is essential to the health and nutrition of the very plants that use all of the insect's tiny "poop" as fertilizer. It's a perfect cycle: the roots of plants not only take up these nutrients, but exude through their roots carbohydrates that feed the bacteria and fungi that break down the nitrogen, phosphorous, protein, and other elements the plants need. This symbiotic relationship took eons to evolve — the food in the soil feeds the very plants that produce the pollen in the flowers that attract the pollinators that ensure that food will eventually follow. How perfect yet how perfectly fragile.

This is what the Cohasset Garden Club, the Osgood teachers, and the South Shore Science Center's naturalists are teaching through all the activities held during "Bee a Pollinator Pal Week". But, most importantly, through the talks, demonstrations, and games taught by members of the Cohasset Garden Club in the organic pollinator garden just outside the school's back door. After three summers it has grown lush and beautiful and has become a clear demonstration of all the colors and "tastes" that attract the variety of pollinators visiting it throughout the season. Next time you are at the school take a peek, we think you will agree.

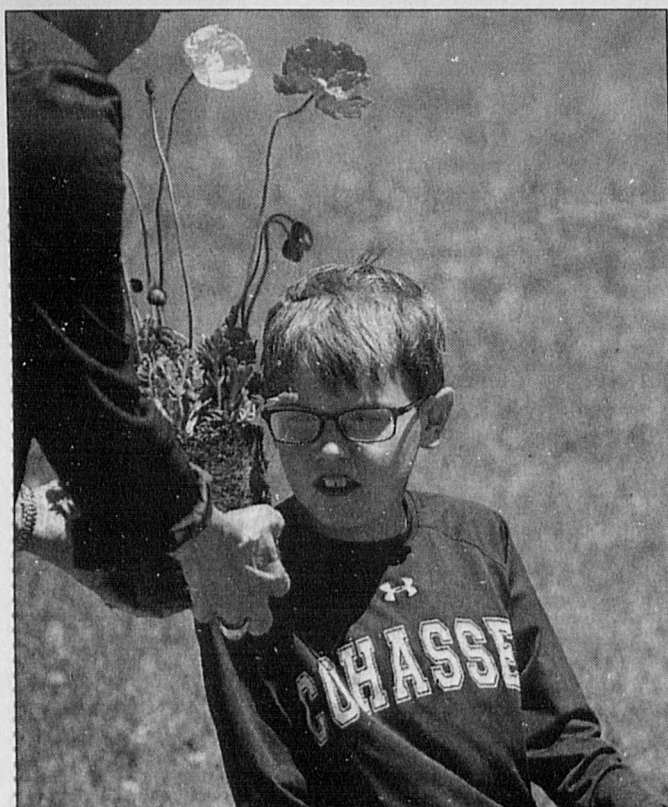

Second-grader Emma Lee admires a worm that she will put in the garden behind the Osgood School while learning about pollination and gardening on Wednesday, June 1.

Second-grader Lennox Wrixon reacts after a worm starts crawling around on the palm of her hand while introducing the worms to the garden that they are growing behind the Osgood School.

Second-grader Amelia Palmer checks out the roots of a flower while learning about gardening and pollination.

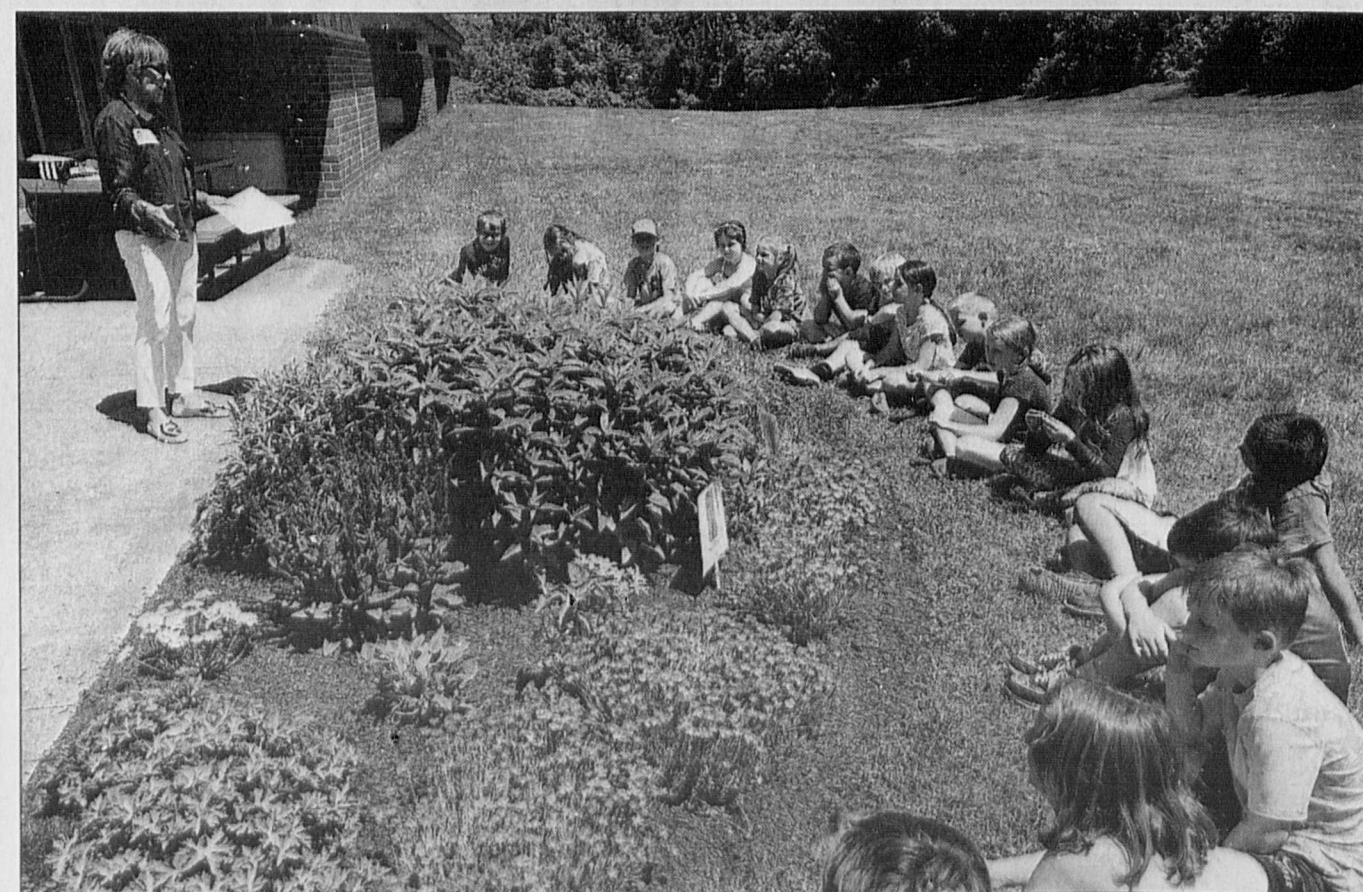

Second-grader Alexander Peters get a closer look at the roots of a flower.

Second-grader Rylee Noonan gets bugged out by a moving worm during their program on pollination and gardening.

Second-grader Graziella Pavona gets a worm to introduce into the garden while James Muldowney and Paul Chapman wait their turn.

Sandra Durant, of the Cohasset Garden Club, talks to the second graders about gardening and pollination.

UPDATE

Working with abutters on new snack shack

Milliken Field building to be replaced

By Amanda C. Thompson
athompson@wickedlocal.com

Wednesday's heated public discussion on the Milliken Field snack shack project off Bancroft Road left neighbors and officials feeling like positive progress had been made.

Convincing abutters that the new snack shack will actually be an improvement to the neighborhood has been a challenge. But while there are lingering concerns about the shack's placement and design, what it seems to come down to for most nearby residents is simply a sense of involvement.

Neighbors still feel that the Recreation Commission should have made more of an effort to include them in the planning process. The commission still feels that it made the effort and that no one should have been surprised when the plans appeared before the Community Preservation Committee in February.

That's all in the past now. At least, that was the stance taken by Town Manager Chris Senior, who facilitated the public meeting. He called the meeting in response to a request from a neighbor, showing that the local government is listening and wants to work with them.

Voters supported paying for the project with community preservation funds at Town Meeting. Thousands use the soccer fields on any given Saturday and will benefit from the new shack, which will include proper restrooms at the field for the first time ever.

The new facility will make it possible for elderly and handicapped family members to attend games, knowing they won't be sent hiking up to the high school if they need to use the bathroom. It will make it possible for moms and dads with infants to bring those children to their older siblings' games because there will be somewhere better than a Porta Potty to change diapers.

The greater good might outweigh the concerns of the few whose houses face the field, but that doesn't invalidate their concerns, and Senior wanted to make sure that the residents of those houses knew he took their opinions seriously.

Do abutters want to nix the cupola from the top of the shack? The architects added it to help the building fit the aesthetic of the neighborhood. If the neighborhood doesn't think it fits, it doesn't have to be built.

Do abutters want plantings to obscure the structure? "All right," said Senior, "let's talk about what kind of plantings you'd like to see."

Do abutters want the rear delivery doors proposed for the street-facing side to be moved to the side of the building? If that's what it takes, then that's what the architects will do.

"These aren't finished plans," Senior kept reminding the meeting.

Many attendees said they felt better after seeing the architect's rendering (except for the cupola). The drawing showed that the new shack really won't be that different from the old one – just a little bit bigger and a whole lot nicer, with no more peeling paint and disrepair.

One abutter tried to bridge the gap between his neighbors and the commission.

"I'm not here to say 'do it' or 'don't do it,'" the abutter began. "It's an inconvenience, but if you did this somewhere else in town, you'd have people screaming bloody murder. You can't do something in this town without people getting upset. You could be handing out hundred dollar bills on the Common and someone would be against it. We're going to get this if we like it or not."

While upsetting someone might be inevitable, neighbors have a chance to work directly with the commission and the Town to build the best snack shack for everyone, and that's exactly what Senior hopes they can accomplish together.

"The project can't stop just because some people don't like it, but I want to work with you to make the least impact possible," Senior said.

AROUND TOWN

Goodbye events planned for great people

Rainbow

This week's column is being written after that amazing storm passed through our area and left so many on the South Shore posting photos of the beautiful rainbow that appeared. It seemed to slow us down for a brief moment in time and bring us together in a show of magic and wonder.

I got a Skype call from my sweet Kaelyn whom I take care of each day saying "Jen-Jen, please pick me up so we can chase the rainbow, please..." At the same time I received a picture from a friend of a far-away glance of the rainbow with a caption saying, "it's your favorite, go see what's at the other end."

Well as we all know, that other end is never found but that magical moment reminds us to slow down and take it in. Have a great week Cohasset, 143!

In this week's column, we have two very special days to let people know about honoring a wonderful couple and one super man.

LIFE AT CHS

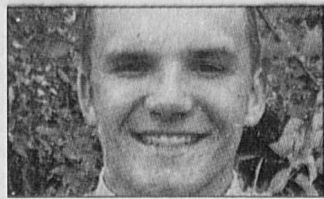

Final countdown to June 21

We finally made it. As summer nears and the newest members of the Cohasset High Alumni community soak in the sun, everyone can sense the school year is coming to an end. For the rest of us who have to sit in the steaming hot classrooms for a couple more weeks, I'm sure we can all appreciate that June 21st can not come soon enough.

While many of us have the final day of school marked in a mental countdown, this school year over the long months has become one like no other. Filled with sports, dances, dodge ball tournaments, field trips, and of course plenty of hard work and studying, the majority of the student body can look back favorably on this year.

Many of my remaining high school classmates have finals week on their minds where multiple late night study sessions are sure to ensue. I speak on behalf of the entire student body when I say no matter how many days you give me for an assignment; I will complete it the last night possible. Crunch time is obviously when the best work comes forth.

I first would like to thank CHS graduate

CONNOR CURRAN

Rebecca Fredey, the most recent writer for this column, for passing down the privilege of writing for the Cohasset Mariner. By now you might be asking yourself who am I? As a rising CHS senior, I am a busy student-athlete and can be found both at the sandbar and volunteering at Holly Hill Farms. In addition to being a proud member of the Cohasset Football Team, I also work during the summer as a sailing instructor at the Cohasset Sailing Club. Although I am not considered to be a famed 'Cohassite', I have lived in this town long enough to truly bleed blue.

Back to why you're really reading this column. This past Saturday was Cohasset Senior Graduation and truly went off without a hitch. The speakers were both descriptive yet elegant in remembering all the unforgettable times this class shared together since Osgood. As the entire grade dressed respectively in our school colors of blue and white, a sense of community and pride grew over both the crowd and the newest alumni.

Fall sports are coming much faster than many expected and I hope to see the majority of my peers practicing various sports on the turf this summer working on their crafts. A big shout out to all our senior athletes whose seasons have come to a much to early end; we will make sure to carry on the legacy of dominance in the South Shore League.

I look forward to writing for the Mariner next year, and I hope to see you all around town in the upcoming months. Until then, enjoy the beach for Winter is Coming, GO BLUE!

— Connor Curran is the new Life at CHS columnist. His column will run weekly starting in September.

Chef's Table.

Festival weekend officially begins at 1 p.m. on Friday, June 17th. Local musicians Lulu Wiley and Emilee Lyons will perform on the festival stage. At 5:30 p.m., awards will be distributed, recognizing artists of all ages and abilities – from professionals all the way down to pre-schoolers.

The festival closes at 7 p.m., but that doesn't mean the fun is over. Aldous Collins Band will play an after-party at the Art Center. Tickets are $30 for members and $40 to the public. The after-party is sponsored by the Frame Center and will be catered by Trader Joe's. It goes from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The after-party is a great opportunity to check out the silent auction, which will be taking place all weekend long in the Art Center's smaller gallery. The auction features one piece from each of the center's gallery artists. To bid, guests write their name, phone number, and their bid amount on a slip beside the artwork. Winners will be determined on Sunday afternoon.

The festival will be open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday, with local musicians booked on the festival stage all day long. Cohasset music teacher Jim Armstrong and his students will kick things off bright and early. The Rusty Skippers play at noon, followed by Earth Tones, the Wilbas, Ruby Rae, the Infractions, and the John Sage Band.

Carrying on the tradition of Tent Talks, the main tent will host a variety of speakers throughout the day, including artist/writer Mike Weymouth and illustrator/cartographer John Roman.

At 12:15, Cory Shea, assistant director of the Cambridge Arts Association, will discuss current trends in art and explain how the jury chose this year's winners. If you're surprised to hear that the best in show was a quilt, this could be a fascinating talk to attend!

When the main festival shuts down at 7 o'clock, the dine-arounds begin. This new event brings artists and community members together in seven private homes across Cohasset, Scituate, and Hingham. Artists may give a talk or demonstration.

Dinner will be served at each location, though it's up to the host to decide how – maybe they've booked a caterer, or maybe they love to cook, themselves. Paul Wahlberg is preparing food for one location, though it's uncertain whether the celebrity chef himself will make an appearance.

Participating in the dine-around costs $75, and limited spots are available. Call the Art Center to inquire: 781-383-2787.

On Sunday, the festival will be open from 12 to 5 p.m. The main tent will feature painter and collage artist Karen Cass. On the festival stage, enjoy musical performances by Siobhan Magnus & Brian Stratton, the Buzztones Rhythm Revue, and the South Shore Bay Band.

Throughout the weekend, the children's tent will have stations for making clothespin airplanes, Georgia O'Keeffe-style flowers, wooden frames, and neckties for dads (after all, Sunday is Father's Day!).

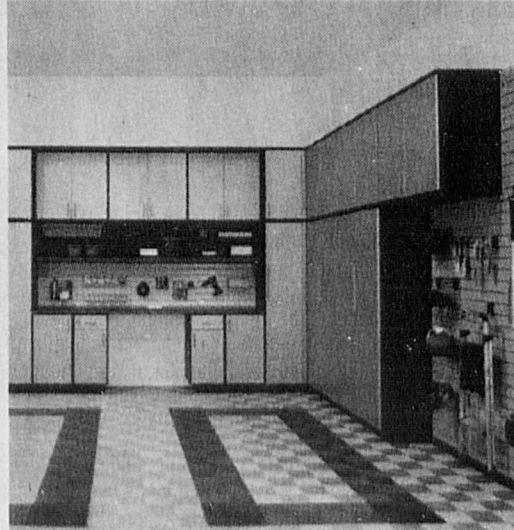

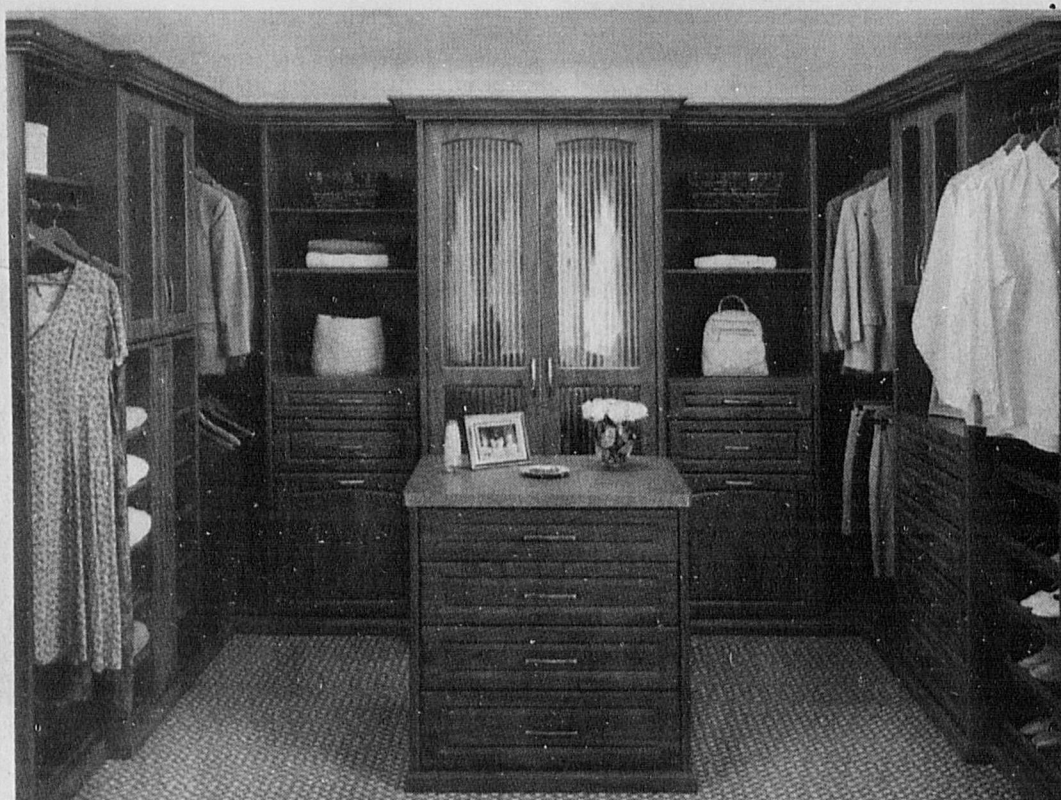

The Art Center reminds festival-goers that proceeds from donation boxes and all special events support year-round programs and activities, which benefit artists young and old across the entire South Shore. A huge "thank you" goes out to all sponsors, volunteers, and guests.

"This event couldn't happen without them," said Hannan.

Sean and Jody Golden didn't want any casseroles after their son Will, a freshman and hockey player at Skidmore College, fell from a third-story roof and died while visiting a friend at the University of Delaware in March.

Instead, friends, family, and community members were encouraged to contribute to a scholarship fund started by family friend Deirdre Prescott. It was too soon for Will's parents to think about how the funds would be used, but Prescott knew that people would want to do something — anything — to help.

Now, people who want to honor and remember Will have a way to do so: they can participate in the annual Cohasset Triathlon on Sunday, June 26th.

"We extended the offer for their family and friends to join the sold-out race and have all the registration fees go into Will's scholarship fund," explained race director Bill Burnett. Registration from the 10 teams will add $1,500 to the fund.

The Cohasset Triathlon already does a lot for charity. Over its 10 years of existence, the race has raised over a million dollars for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, which seeks a cure for juvenile type 1 diabetes. But for Burnett, this close-to-home cause warranted something above and beyond the usual.

No one in the Golden family has ever done the Tri. In fact, they had never even talked to Burnett before he sent them a letter pitching

"Will loved Cohasset. He was an athlete and a competitor — that defined a lot of who he was. Anyone who knew him is still in mourning, and this is a good way to start the healing process."

Jody Golden

his idea about the Triathlon. But Will's parents still think this is a perfect way to remember their son.

"Will loved Cohasset," said Jody. "He was an athlete and a competitor — that defined a lot of who he was. Anyone who knew him is still in mourning, and this is a good way to start the healing process."

However, Jody wasn't sure Will would have ever chosen to do the Tri. Maybe the swimming portion — "He was an excellent swimmer," she said. But as a hockey and lacrosse player, Will was more about strength, dexterity, and coordination than endurance.

He would have rounded out the family team perfectly, then, since his brother Curtis plans to bike in this year's Tri and his sister Corey plans to run. Sean and Jody won't be participating this year.

"The triathlon is about trying something new, achieving an athletic accomplishment," says the Cohasset Tri webpage that has been set up for Will. "It's about the close community of Cohasset, and it's about doing something together for the greater good."

All ages and athletic abilities are invited to race for Will. The cost is $50 per person (plus a $15 USA Triathlon fee). Never done a triathlon before? Not to worry. They are looking to form relay teams — one person will swim 400 yards, one person will bike 12 miles, and one person will run a 5K.

"Will was not an individual athlete," Sean said. "He always played on teams. We're hoping to see some of his friends from Cohasset who have been away at school, his friends from Skidmore, and kids who played with him on different hockey teams over the years."

100 percent of the registration will be donated to the Will Golden Scholarship Fund. The scholarship will go to a student who embodies the same passions and talents as Will — perhaps someone who's graduating and headed to college to play sports, or perhaps an athlete within the high school whose family needs a little extra help giving their student opportunities to play.

Jody and Sean will put together a team in the fall to determine the recipient.

In addition to the scholarship fund, the Golden family has established a charitable gift fund, which can be disbursed in a similar spirit but can't be given to individuals the way a scholarship is.

Instead, the charitable gift fund will support organizations and causes that would have meant a lot to Will. Things that benefit kids, athletes, and the less fortunate are at the top of the list.

"Will was very thankful and appreciative; he didn't act spoiled," said Jody. "He was always in tune to how fortunate he was, the love he received from family and friends, and everything he had: the opportunities, the community, the sports, college, travel and more."

Potential beneficiaries include local club sports, Skidmore, homeless shelters (where Will sometimes volunteered), or the Appalachian Service Project, just to name a few.

The advantage of the charitable gift fund is that foundations and corporations can contribute because it's an official 501(c)(3) non-profit, and contributions are tax-deductible.

While personal donations will inevitably taper off as time goes on and the community heals, the Golden family hopes that the charitable gift fund can continue to do good in their son's memory.

Contact Christian Cunnie, assistant race director, at christian@streamlineevents.com to register for the 2016 Triathlon.

"This is the first of what we hope will be many triathlons and events in Will's honor," said Jody. "Moving forward, this is what's going to help us heal: getting together to remember Will for the wonderful, athletic, funny, enthusiastic, kind person that he was. He was a great kid with a love of life."

OUR VIEW

Respect for our flag

Many of us have shed a tear at events when Old Glory is raised or lowered. We place our hand over our heart or salute as the Star Spangled Banner or other patriotic music is played. Pride in our flag is something most Americans share.

But today with the Stars and Stripes adorning everything from running shorts to plastic cups, most of us have no understanding about how to show respect for our flag on a regular basis.

With Flag Day on Tuesday, now is a good time to take a look at our flags and see if they need to be replaced. Flag Day is the anniversary of the Continental Congress's Flag Resolution on June 14, 1777. The resolution established the flag as having 13 alternating red and white stripes; and the white stars (13 at the time) on a blue field. Flag Day was officially established by the Proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson in 1916. And in 1949, President Harry Truman signed an Act of Congress designating June 14 of each year as National Flag Day.

Most of us mean no harm when we allow our flags displayed on our homes or atop flag poles at our businesses to become worn. But, truthfully, that is a sign of disrespect. We owe it to all those who fought for our flag — which the symbol of the freedom we enjoy — to ensure our old flag is either cleaned and mended, or retired and replaced when it is no longer fit to serve as a symbol of our country.

The red, white and blue of Old Glory, no matter how small or large, should be vibrant — the edges crisp. A bright, fresh flag shows we continue to renew our belief in all that the Stars and Stripes stand for.

Here are some tips for displaying the flag:

■ On a vehicle: Attach the flag to the antenna or clamp the flagstaff to the right fender. Do not lay the flag over the vehicle.

■ On a building: Hang the flag on a staff or on a rope over the sidewalk with the stars away from the building.

■ Over the street: Hang the flag with the stars to the east on a north-south street or north on an east-west street.

■ In a window: Hang the flag vertically with the stars to the left of anyone looking at it from the street.

■ Half-staff: This is a sign of mourning. Raise the flag to the top of the pole then lower it to the half way point. Before lowering the flag, raise it to the top again at the end of the day.

■ Multiple staffs: If you display the flag on a staff with other flags around it, place the flag at the center and highest point.

■ In a hall or lobby: Hang the flag vertically across from the main entrance with the stars to the left of anyone coming through the door.

About the Stars and Stripes: Between 1777 and 1960, Congress passed several acts that changed the shape, design and arrangement of the flag and allowed for additional stars and stripes to be added to reflect the admission of each new state.

Today the flag consists of 13 horizontal stripes, seven red alternating with six white. The stripes represent the original 13 colonies, the stars represent the 50 states of the Union. The colors of the flag are symbolic as well; red symbolizes hardiness and valor; white symbolizes purity and innocence and blue represents vigilance, perseverance and justice.

LETTER

George Toma thanked for kindness

This is a letter of thanks — my sincere and heartfelt thanks to George Toma, of George Washington Toma. I want to thank George for being a generous, giving, and wonderful guy, always.

This coming Labor Day weekend will mark the 40th anniversary of the Tolman Family Telethon in Hingham, held at Congregation Sha'aray Shalom on Main Street.

George has donated a large screen TV every year for soon-to-be 40 years. He's delivered it and picked it up, all at no cost [J]ust last week, George graciously donated a washer/dryer to a young mother of four who was homeless and is no longer, but had no means to purchase nor access to a washer/dryer. To be the mother of four boys with no washer/dryer is more than anyone should have to bear!

and with such enthusiasm and support for the work we've done.

And just last week, George graciously donated a washer/dryer to a young mother of four who was homeless and is no longer, but had no means to purchase nor access to a washer/dryer.

To be the mother of four boys with no washer/dryer is more than anyone should have to bear!

And it wasn't easy. George had to find just the right unit, it had to be in perfect working order, it took multiple delivery attempts, etc.

But he did it and this young woman is beyond grateful, as am I for his help and always being there when called upon.

Thank you, George — for your civic-mindedness and work ethic, your kindness and compassion and for unflinchingly being willing to figure out a way to make it work.

STATE SENATE

Continued funding for SRO secured

During the Massachusetts State Senate's Fiscal Year 2017 budget debates, new state Sen. Patrick O'Connor, R-Weymouth, was successful in securing $100,000 in state funds which will continue to pay for training, salary, and benefits for the school resource officer position in Cohasset's public schools.

Cohasset will now be able to continue to enlist a sworn law enforcement officer to ensure safety and promote solidarity in their schools for the benefit of the students and their futures.

"I am very thankful to my colleagues in the Senate for seeing the continued benefit of this funding," O'Connor said. "As our youth today are exposed to a wide array of modern day issues, such as the drug epidemic plaguing our region, having a resource officer helps to keep our students educated and protected in our public school system." With the continuation of funding this position, Cohasset's students continue to have an established liaison to awareness programs such as Drug Story Theater. The officer works with guidance counselors and other student support staff to assist students and provide services to students involved in situations where referrals to service agencies are necessary.

"I am very pleased that Cohasset schools will be able to continue to provide their students with this positive role model in their lives," O'Connor said.

O'Connor was sworn into office on May 18 to serve Cohasset as state senator.

—O'Connor represents the Plymouth and Norfolk district, which includes the towns of Cohasset, Duxbury, Hingham, Hull, Marshfield, Norwell, Scituate and Weymouth.

PUSHING THE EDGE

Are we as smart as today's graduates?

It is graduation season and thousands of high school and college students are experiencing an important life passage from childhood to adulthood. Congratulations to the Class of '16 as well to the parents who nurtured their children along the way. Among the graduates are some "wicked smart" young men and women raised by pretty smart parents. But is a graduate of today as smart as one of an earlier generation? Are they prepared to excel in today's (and tomorrow's) world? Well we have to start defining smart and that's not so easy because there are different types of smarts.

We commonly think about two types of intelligence: book smart and street smart. The stereotype of a book smart person is someone who knows a lot of facts, succeeds scholastically (good grades and high SAT scores), but may have trouble putting that knowledge into real world practice. We think of a street smart person as someone who has good common sense and is reasonably intelligent, knows what's going on in the real world and uses that knowledge to "succeed" in life. He or she may or may not do well academically because schools don't grade street smarts. We all have some combination of book and street smarts.

Today's world is more complex than when we made the transition to adulthood (and that's what our parents said). Each generation inherits a world with new challenges. Some old problems get solved, new ones emerge and others continue to be elusive. Our hope is that today's graduates will gain the wisdom to thrive as adults and harness their collective intelligence to make the world a little bit better place. Achieving that aspiration is what I call "wicked good"!

RECYCLING

Holey socks, they can go in the donation box!

Are you done with those tattered towels? That coffee-stained shirt? Your cast-offs are still too good for the trash!

Audits performed recently at several Mass. disposal facilities revealed that over 5 percent of our trash is composed of used but useful textiles. That adds up to 240,000 tons, or 73 pounds of clothes, footwear and household "soft-wear" that the average Massachusetts resident burns or buries each year.

It's time to clear up the misperception that charities and textile recyclers only want "gently used" items. The fact is even the shabbiest old cloth, leather or stuffed item in your house that is deposited in a textile donation box (not your household recycling bin) will be repurposed.

"All clean, dry clothing and household textiles — tablecloths, shoes, belts, and stuffed animals — can be recycled," says Larry Groipen, past President of the Secondary Materials and Recycled Textiles Association (SMART) and chief of ERC Wiping Products in Lynn. "Even if they are stained or damaged, there is a use for the material."

What happens to your castoffs after you drop them in a textile donation box? Whether the box belongs to Bay State

CLAIRE GALKOWSKI

Textiles, Big Hearted Books and Clothing, Goodwill, Salvation Army, or the dozens of other entities, 95 percent of items find a second life.

The "good stuff" is often sold in local thrift stores, raising money for charities and providing bargain clothing for us and our neighbors.

Thrift store rejects are hand sorted by rag graders. Some go to developing countries, where families depend on low-cost used items. Shoe and clothing repair is a thriving industry in resource poor nations.

Workers at Groipen's Lynn business cut and sell absorbent rags to machine shops, car washes, marinas, etc. as wiping cloths.

Millbury Textiles near Worcester employs dozens of people who shred donated discards to make furniture stuffing, insulation and carpet padding. Even zippers and buttons are recycled. Shredded polyester is spun into new fabric.

The "rag" business supports training programs for struggling citizens to develop work skills, and adds value to materials that would otherwise be wasted. Proceeds from the sale of all the grades of textiles cover collection and processing costs, and often provides funding for charities and local organizations.

Paul Curry of Bay State Textiles stresses that "Everything should be dry, but we accept the good — gently used clothing, the bad — those ripped jeans with the broken zipper, and the ugly, that sweater Aunt Edna gave you in 1978". BST shares the revenue with several area municipalities and schools.

Recycling isn't just good for our paper, cardboard and containers. We help the planet and the economy by recycling all our textiles too. Find a donation box near you at ssrcoop.info (Other Stuff tab) to give your holey socks a new purpose.

Walk along trail to Straits Pond Island

By Judeth van Hamm
Special to the Mariner

You are invited on a walk along the proposed End of Richards Road Trail and out onto the Straits Pond Island at 11 a.m. this Saturday, June 11. From Atlantic Avenue, between Hull Town Hall and Gunrock Beach, turn onto Richards Road. Go to 35 Richards Road at the end of the public road, then turn left and go to the end of the private road. Bring binoculars for bird watching if you have them.

The Hull Land Conservation Trust is now down to $23,000 to raise by Aug. 31 to match Cohasset Conservation Trust's pledge of $40,000 to acquire a permanent Conservation Restriction with a trail on the Lofchie property at the end of Richards Road.

We are planning a brick patio at the beginning of the path. A gift of $120 for a brick includes a $100 donation and two lines of inscription on the brick. If 230 people donate for a brick by the end of August, the goal is met. Donations of any size are welcome. You can donate online at www.straitspond.org or by sending, or dropping off, a check to Hull Land Conservation Trust, 1 Hullportside, Hull, MA 02045.

of Hull for back taxes in 2004. Many residents around Straits Pond have memories of playing on and exploring the Island. The Island gives the feeling of being in a faraway woods. It is a destination. The marsh edges of the Island put Straits Pond's houses out of sight. The End of Richards Road Path would allow people to access the Island. A path on the Island would make it clear where to walk, meandering among rock outcroppings and vernal pools.

History

The acquisition of the Straits Pond Island is an interesting story. In 2003, as part of development of the tri-town Weir River Estuary Land Protection Plan, the MA Department of Conservation and Recreation agreed to spend a given sum to acquire the highest priority conservation land along the Estuary. DCR appraised the Lofchie property and came to an agreement to acquire 2 acres of undeveloped land for $500,000.

At that time, the Island was owned by Marty Coleman, who also owned the peninsula on the western side of George Washington Boulevard at the entrance to Hull. While the Boulevard land was the Plan's highest priority, its price put it out of reach.

After the Hull Town Meeting approved allowing the MA Department of Conservation to purchase conservation land in Hull, Mr. Coleman let DCR know that he was willing to lower his price to $500,000. An arrangement was made with the Town of Hull to transfer the back taxes owed on the Boulevard property to the Island, which the Town of Hull then acquired for back taxes.

The Hull Land Conservation Trust has been seeking funds and working with the Lofchies to find a "Plan B" since 2007 and is happy to have reached the current agreement to acquire a 15,500 sq. ft. Conservation Restriction Area with trail, at its appraised value of $100,000. The Hull Land Conservation Trust is down to $23,000 to raise by Aug. 31, 2016.

Thank you for envisioning an End of Richards Road Path for a Straits Pond Waterfowl Viewing Park.

SPRAY

call 9-1-1, even if the Narcan seems to revive them.

Adapt Pharma, the maker of Narcan nasal spray, is working to make it broadly accessible. Doctors can prescribe it, and patients can get it from major pharmacies like CVS and Walgreens. Adapt recommends carrying the nasal spray with you if you (or someone you know) are at risk of an opioid overdose.

The Cohasset Police Department has been using this easy new Adapt naloxone applicator for three weeks, thanks to a grant from South Shore Hospital's charitable foundation.

Selectman Paul Schubert, who is a physician, led the charge on the grant. After Wilson showed Schubert a sample of the new Narcan that was on display at the health and wellness fair in March, the selectman started making phone calls.

"I called the governor's office, the mayor's office in Weymouth, the board of selectmen in town, Garrett Bradley and Senator Hedlund, the district attorney, and the state senate candidates," Schubert rattled off.

"They were all for it."

Then, Schubert compiled overdose statistics from South Shore communities and pitched the idea to the hospital.

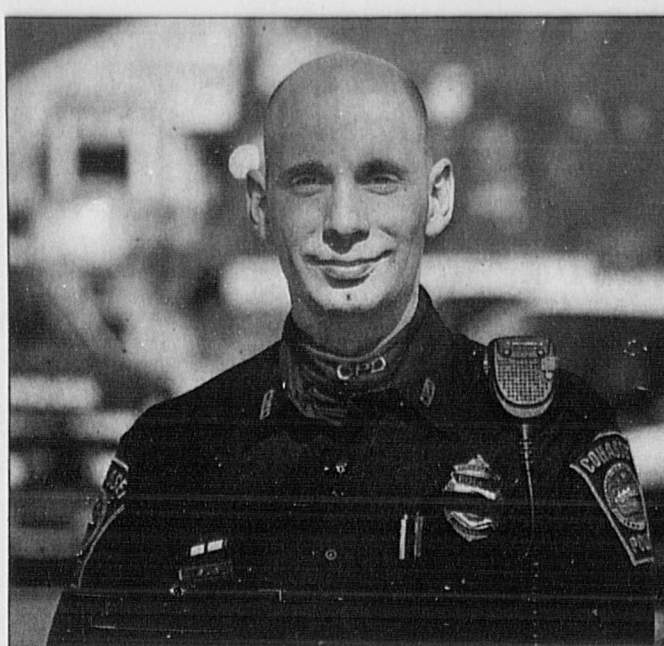

Meanwhile, Wilson was at an opiate conference, learning all about this amazing new device. He left the conference determined to bring the Adapt dispenser to Cohasset. But by the time he got home, Schubert had already written the grant.

"He sort of ran away with it," Wilson said. "In a good way!"

Adapt naloxone dispensers can now be found in every Cohasset Police vehicle and in every medical bag at headquarters. The grant will soon stock up neighboring towns, including Hingham, Hull and Norwell, with the latest weapon in the war on opioids.

Before Adapt came out with this easy, one-step spray, first responders had to fumble with a three-piece device: a vial containing the medicine itself, a nasal aspirator (which turns the medicine into a mist), and a "syringe" that's inserted into the nostril.

With the older Luer-lock syringe, also called a "Luer jet," there were three caps to attach. One piece was taped to the box. If first responders weren't careful, the medicine could be sprayed during assembly, requiring them to start over.

"It's like screwing in a water filter under a sink," Schubert said. "If it's not done properly, it can misfire -- the Luer jet can blow back at you and ruin the dose. But this new one is pretty much failsafe."

Even if first responders do everything right, the Luer jet takes about two minutes to put together. The new nasal spray is ready to go, and it only has to be sprayed into one nostril -- the Luer jet has to be sprayed into both.

"In a stressful environment, while wearing gloves -- it was tough," Wilson said. "This is better for first responders, and better for families. Otherwise they're looking on, shouting at us to 'do something,' when we're already working as fast as

About Narcan

- Active ingredient: naloxone hydrochloride
- NARCAN® Nasal Spray is used to temporarily reverse the effects of opioid medicines. It has no effect in people who are not taking opioid medicines.
- NARCAN® Nasal Spray delivers its dose of naloxone to the bloodstream through the mucus membranes in the nose. The patient does not need to be breathing for the dose to be absorbed.
- The makers of NARCAN® Nasal Spray advise carrying a dose with you if you, or someone you know, are at risk of an opioid overdose.
- NARCAN® Nasal Spray is not a substitute for emergency medical care. If you suspect that someone has overdosed on opioids, call 9-1-1, even if NARCAN® Nasal Spray has been administered.
- Signs of an opioid overdose may include:
 - Unusual sleepiness and you are not able to awaken the person with a loud voice or by rubbing firmly on the middle of their chest (sternum).
 - Breathing problems, including slow or shallow breathing in someone difficult to awaken or who looks like they are not breathing.
 - The black circle in the center of the colored part of the eye (pupil) is very small, sometimes called "pinpoint pupils," in someone difficult to awaken.

we can."

The new Adapt dispenser delivers a higher dosage of naloxone: four milligrams, compared to the two milligrams of its predecessor. Another shortcoming of the Luer jet was that some medication could be lost in transit. Of the two-milligram dose, victims only received about half a milligram in practice.

That doesn't mean the old method didn't work. Narcan has saved lives in Cohasset and across the South Shore, even administered through the less-efficient means of the Luer jet. The original nasal spray will continue saving lives as the new one rolls out to all the towns included in the grant.

THE HOUSE AND SENATE. Beacon Hill Roll Call records local representatives' votes on roll calls from the week of May 30-June 3. There were no roll calls in the Senate last week.

PROHIBIT DISCRIMINATION AGAINST TRANSGENDER PEOPLE (H 4343)

House 116-36, approved the bill that would expand current law prohibiting discrimination against transgender people by adding "gender identity" to existing Massachusetts civil rights laws that already prohibit discrimination in public accommodations on the basis of age, race, creed, color, national origin, sexual orientation, sex, religion and marital status. The proposal also allows transgender people to use public facilities, including restrooms and locker rooms, that match their gender identity rather than their biological sex.

Supporters said transgender individuals still face the threat of discrimination in many public accommodations. They argued that under current Massachusetts law, there is no protection ensuring that transgender people cannot be turned away from a restroom, locker room, hotel, restaurant, retail stores and many other places simply because they are transgender. They said it is time to have Massachusetts join the other 17 states that offer these protections.

Opponents said the privacy rights of children matter and asked how youngsters might react to a transgender classmate using the same bathroom. They argued that bathroom and locker room use should be based on the gender on one's birth certificate, not on an inner sense of feeling or expression. They said that male predators could use this law as cover to excuse their presence in women-only spaces.

The Senate has approved a different version of the bill. The House version now goes to the Senate for consideration. Gov. Charlie Baker has indicated he favors the House version. And as extra insurance, both branches have sufficient votes to override any unexpected veto by the governor.

EXEMPT SCHOOLS (H 4343)

House 36-120, rejected an amendment that would exempt schools from the proposed transgender law.

Amendment supporters said exempting schools would make the bill more palatable and not create problems for students.

Amendment opponents said the exemption would allow hundreds of schools to discriminate.

MEDICAL STANDARD (H 4343)

House 11-145, rejected an amendment that would require that gender identity that is different from a person's assigned gender at birth, must be proven by providing evidence including medical history, care or treatment of the gender-related identity. Current law allows gender identity to be proven by "consistent and uniform assertion of the gender-related identity or any other evidence that the gender-related identity is sincerely held as part of a person's core identity."

Amendment supporters said this will establish a medical standard instead of just allowing people to decide what they are every morning when they wake up.

Amendment opponents said the amendment goes too far. They noted that transgender people should continue to have the right to choose their identity without a doctor's interference.

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment. A "No" vote is against it.)

EXEMPT LOCKER ROOMS AND BATHROOMS (H 4343)

House 32-124, rejected an amendment that would exempt showers and locker rooms from the proposed transgender law.

Amendment supporters said this exemption is very narrow and would simply give business owners and religious organizations the opportunity to decide on their shower and locker room policies.

Amendment opponents said the amendment kills a main portion of the proposed law and would allow discrimination.

PARENTS CAN ACCOMPANY CHILDREN UNDER 12 TO BATHROOM (H 4343)

House 42-113, rejected an amendment that would allow parents or legal guardians, regardless of their gender, to accompany their children under the age of 12 into a public restroom.

Amendment supporters said no parent should be forced to let their young child go alone into a restroom knowing that there might be problems inside.

Amendment opponents said the amendment waters down the bill and could lead to a slippery slope and more exemptions.

BAN SEX OFFENDERS (H 4343)

House 58-94, rejected an amendment that would prohibit Level 2 and Level 3 sex offenders from using any sex-segregated facility, bathroom or locker room that is not consistent with his or her assigned sex at birth. Level 2 offenders pose a moderate risk of reoffending while Level 3 ones pose a high risk.

Amendment supporters said a sex offender who is a transgender woman (a person who was assigned male at birth but whose gender identity is that of a woman) should not have access to places where women and girls expect to see only other women and girls.

Some amendment opponents said the bill is civil rights legislation and should not be muddled up with these various amendments that fool with and water down the bill. Others said that sex offenders have an extremely low rate of recidivism.

ALSO UP ON BEACON HILL

PUBLIC RECORDS (H 4333) - Gov. Charlie Baker legislation designed to ensure that the state and local municipalities comply in a timely way with requests for public records. The measure would also reduce costs to people making the requests.

The legislation requires each state agency and municipality to appoint at least one public records access officer to serve as the point of contact for all public records requests; limits to $25 per hour the fees municipalities and state agencies can charge for time spent responding to requests; and requires agencies and municipalities to make documents available in electronic form.

Supporters say this will make state and local government more transparent. They argued it is not acceptable for the members of the news media or for ordinary citizens to face unreasonable delays and high costs to gain access to information that is supposed to be public.

MOVE OVER FOR EMERGENCY VEHICLES (H 4244) - The House gave initial approval to a bill expanding the current "Move Over Law" to include public utility vehicles. The current law requires drivers to reduce their speed to that of a "reasonable and safe speed for road conditions" when they spot an emergency vehicle with flashing lights on the side of the highway. The current law applies to fire trucks, police vehicles, ambulances, disaster vehicles and highway maintenance vehicles.

REQUIRE REPORTING OF CHILD ABUSE (H 132) - The House gave initial approval to a bill adding drug and alcoholism counselors, athletic coaches, tutors and any employees at public and private schools to the current list of professionals required to report instances of the abuse, sexual abuse or neglect of a child under 18. The current list of mandated reporters includes doctors and medical personnel, teachers and educational personnel, police officers, firefighters and many human service professionals.

During the week of May 30-June 3, the House met for a total of eight hours and one minute and the Senate met for a total of one hour and five minutes.

Skippers rip through Dedham and Old Rochester

By William Wassersug
wwassersug@wickedlocal.com

Heading into the MIAA Division 2 South Sectional Tournament, the Cohasset girls lacrosse team was looking strong with a 13-3 record and a No. 2 seed in the 19-team field.

The only real question for at least the first round was just what were they going to see from No. 15 seeded Dedham (6-11), a team that plays in a tough league and has pulled off some serious upsets in the past.

Not this time.

Cohasset's Jane Hansen scored a goal in the first minute of the game and the Skippers never looked back on the way to a 20-2 win, Friday June 3 at Cohasset High School.

The win set up a game against No. 7 Old Rochester (12-5) Monday June 6.

Old Rochester beat No. 10 Ursuline 19-18 in their opener.

"They played really well as a team," Cohasset coach Kully Reardon said of her squad. "We have a new hard hat award that deserves mentioning. With 20 goals, the scoring was spread out. Zoe Doherty is just such a good tough defender. She comes off the bench, which is really hard to do, and she got kind of steamrolled, but she always gets the ball. She did a great job."

Caelin McDonald led the scoring parade with 4 goals.

Elle Hansen scored 3 goals and added an assist, while Marina Longo, Ally Leahy and Jane Hansen

Laxmen eliminated by Norwell in quarterfinal

By Chris McDaniel
cmcdaniel@wickedlocal.com

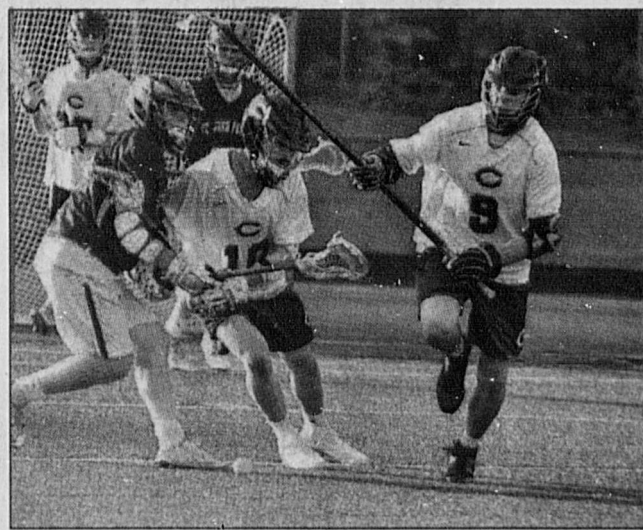

No one on the Norwell High boys lacrosse team's roster had ever defeated Cohasset.

That is, until Monday night's Division 3 South Sectional quarterfinal.

The fourth-seeded Clippers knocked off the fifth-seeded Skippers, 11-8, giving Norwell its first win in the series since 2012.

Norwell rode the goal-tending of senior Caleb Getto (18 saves) and a balanced offensive attack (seven different goal-scorers) to victory that ended the Skippers season short.

The Clippers broke free in the second half, opening their largest lead of the day (8-4) following tallies from Jack Dole (two goals, three assists), Paul Seguin

(two goals, assist) and Jack Ward (three goals), but the Skippers (14-8) rallied back with three consecutive goals.

Cohasset sophomore William Thomas (three goals) started the comeback bid single-handedly by bullying his way into two goals in the final 75 seconds of the third quarter. Cohasset senior captain Daniel Axelson netted his first tally at the start of the fourth quarter to bring Cohasset within one (8-7).

But the Clippers responded with consecutive goals. Senior captain Max Abbate started a fastbreak and fed Seguin for the goal. Seguin found Dole to put Norwell up 10-7 with 4:44 remaining in the fourth quarter.

Less than 30 seconds later, Axelson struck for his second goal of the day but Norwell kept Cohasset off the board for the rest of the game. Getto had two saves solo goals.

Golden, Coveney, Elle Hansen, Jane Hansen and Kyle Burke had assists.

The Skippers had a good night on the draws, with Elle Hansen leading the way with 4 draw controls. Burke had 2 and Jane Hansen, Lauren Cuning and Doherty each had one.

Shea Kearney made 3 saves and Jenny Wolfe had 4.

Reardon liked what she saw from her team.

"I'm feeling really good," she said. "I'm feeling like we're finally, maybe playing to our potential a little bit. I don't think we've seen the best this team can play, so it's exciting. We're going in the right direction."

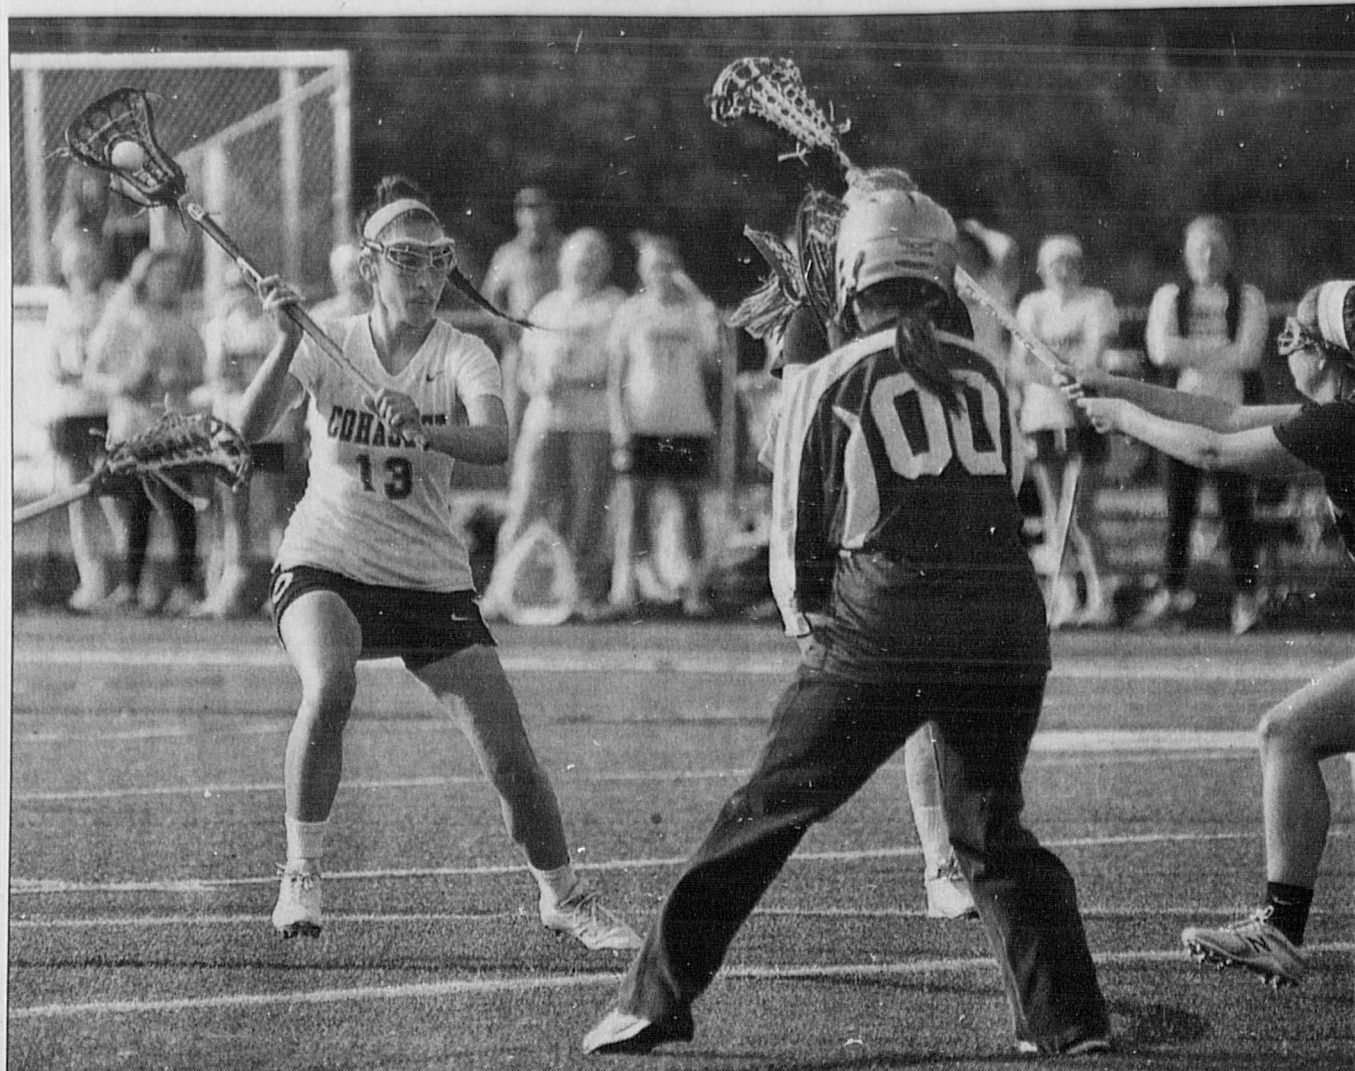

As for Old Rochester,

Reardon wasn't quite sure what to expect, as she hadn't seen them play recently.

"I saw them play last year and they're physical and aggressive," she said. "It's going to be a good battle."

The heated battle never got too hot as the Skippers dominated in a 19-3 win.

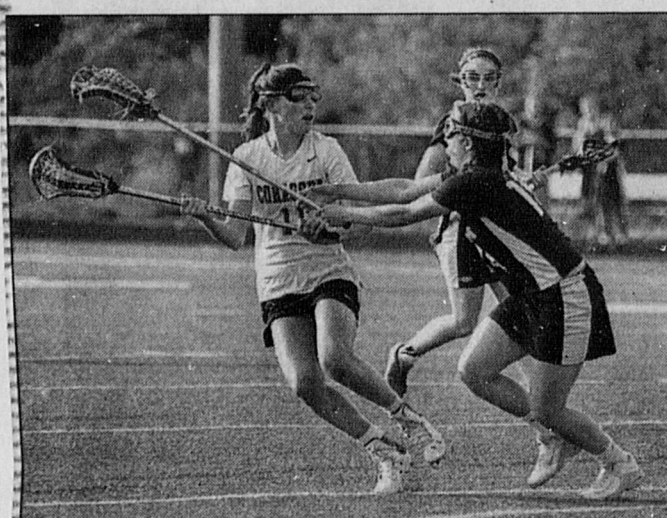

Elle Hansen led the way with five goals. Seniors Ally Leahy and Corey Golden each scored four goals. Senior Caelin McDonald scored two goals. Scoring single goals were Jane Hansen, Marina Longo, and Maddy O'Neill and Calli O'Neill. Sophomore Lauren Cuning played well on defense. The Skippers were scheduled to face No. 3 seeded Scituate in the Sectional Semifinal, Thursday May 9 at 4 p.m. at home (result unavailable at press time).

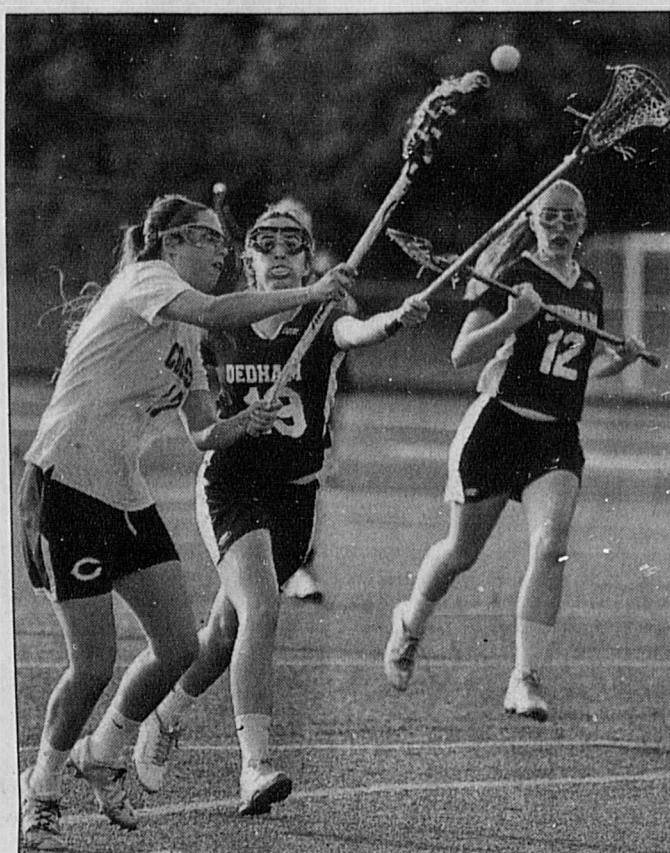

Cohasset's Caelin McDonald sets up one of her four goals in a 20-2 playoff win over Dedham Friday June 3.

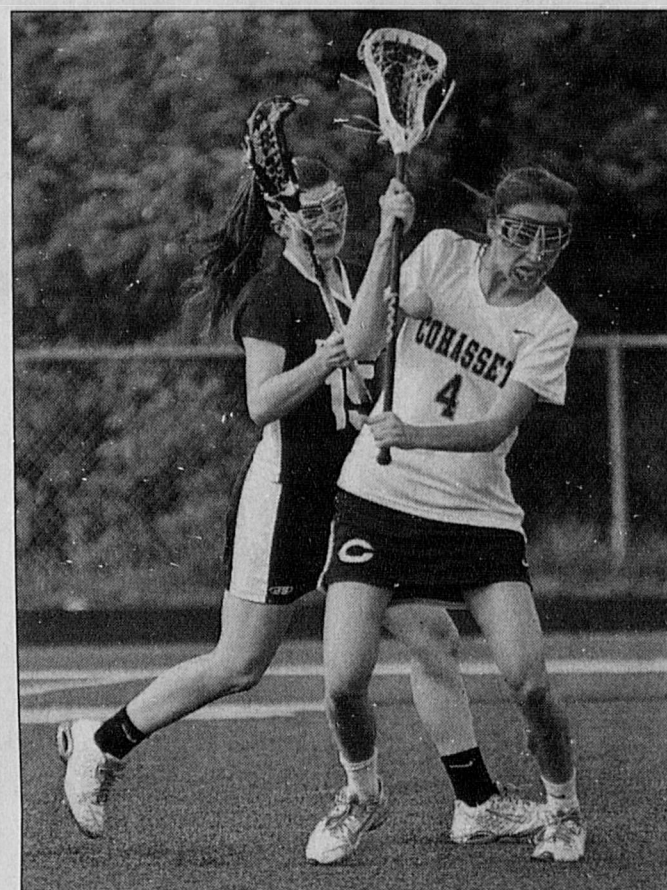

Cohasset's Ally Leahy stays ahead of Dedham defender Samantha Hickey June 3 at Cohasset High School.

Cohasset's Elle Hansen works with the ball in the Skippers' 20-2 playoff win over Dedham, Friday June 3.

Cohasset's Marina Longo passes against Dedham June 3 at Cohasset High School. Cohasset won 20-2.

that win with a thrilling 3-2 win at No. 4 seeded St. John Paul II (17-4) at Barnstable, Tuesday June 7.

They were supposed to play Dover-Sherborn in the semifinal at Medway, Wednesday, but weather postponed the match and sent it to Dover-Sherborn Thursday June 9 (result unavailable at press-time).

Cohasset, which won the South Shore League title, was well represented in the South Shore League All-Stars with six players named to the team.

Freshman Mity Hill was an All-Star at first singles and was also named Player of the Year.

Senior Jackson Dutton got the nod at singles, while the doubles teams of juniors Jack Speer/Drew Skolnick and seniors Jack Coffman/Sam Greenip also made the cut.

Cohasset coach Chris Luvisi is pleased with the way the team has played, especially against St. John Paul II.

"St. John Paul was the No. 4 seed and we were five," Luvisi said. "We beat them 3-2. The deciding game was our first doubles (Speer/Skolnick). They were down 4-1, then came back to win the first set 7-5, then they won the second set 6-0. I think our guys were a little tentative at first, a little tight. When they loosened up, they played their aggressive, athletic style game. Their style of play worked well."

Luvisi said he was a little nervous.

"It didn't look that good early," he said. "They were down and it was the one that decided it."

It doesn't get any easier

Cohasset swim and dive team tryouts for children aged 6+ will be held at the Cohasset Swim Center on Monday, June 20 from 3-4:30 p.m. for swimmers and 4-5 p.m. for divers. The rain date is June 21, same times. Swimmers should feel comfortable swimming one stroke down the length of the pool and returning using another stroke of their choice. The cost for swim team is $195 per swimmer and a multi-child discount is available. Swimmers must be members of the Cohasset Town Pool which requires a membership fee. The season runs from June 23-August 15. Swimmers practice at designated times Monday-Thursday for one hour between 8 a.m. and noon. with Dover-Sherborn up next.

"They're the defending champ," Luvisi said Wednesday about the No. 1 undefeated 18-0 opponent. "I haven't seen them yet. I know they're from the Tri-Valley League and they've beaten very good teams like Medfield and Westwood twice. There's no doubt they'll be tough," Luvisi said. "We're going to need to have all our players play their best."

Against Bishop Connolly, Cohasset won in straight sets.

"They were a nice team," Luvisi said. "But we beat them in straight sets. They only won four games total."

Along with the doubles team that stepped up against SJP II, Dutton, a senior captain had a huge day, winning handily at second singles, a factor made more important as Hill lost at first singles.

"Jackson is a talented player who has filled a role very nicely," Luvisi said. "He's 24-3 this season and shows how a senior captain steps up."

As for Hill, the Skippers found a gem to step into the No. 1 role.

"Mity has done a terrific job as a freshman in that position," Luvisi said. "He ran into a very tough player at SJP II, but he had some great shots. He knows he gave his best effort. Its very exciting to look at what he can do for us for the next three years."

Looking ahead, the Skippers will be losing four starters to graduation - Dutton, Pitts, Coffman and Greenip.

"We'll miss them," Luvisi said. "But we have Mity back and freshman Joe Kenealy has started enough matches to earn his varsity level. He'll be starting for us next year."

PLYMOUTH PILGRIMS

Their time to shine

New season of elite college baseball kicks off Thursday night at Forges Field

By David Wolcott
dwolcott@wickedlocal.com

PLYMOUTH - They're back!!!

Some of the top Division 1 college baseball players in the country will be coming to America's Hometown again this summer as the Plymouth Pilgrims set course on its fourth season as a member of the New England Collegiate Baseball League.

They're sprucing up things around the Forges Field baseball diamond and the first pitch of the summer season is set for Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. when the Pilgrims take on the Winnepesaukee Muskrats.

The pitching mound at the field has been replaced and the holes in the batters box have been filled in and repaired. The grass field should also be in pristine condition for the opening of the new season.

In addition to the new crop of the best college baseball players in the country coming to town this summer, the baseball operations part of the organization all has some new faces.

The team is now run by a pair of Plymouth natives. One of the team's owners, Dan Shaughnessy, has stepped in as team president and the new general manager is Ben Fey.

One thing that has not changed is the on-field leadership of the team. Manager Greg Zackrisson is back on the bench for a fourth season and the Stonehill College head coach will have some familiar faces helping him out on the bench. The Pilgrims have added Matt Walsh and Joe Walsh to the coaching staff this season.

Walsh and Flynn both starred on the baseball diamond at Plymouth North and then went on to continue their baseball success as members of the powerhouse Franklin Pierce University program. Walsh played summer ball with the Pilgrims and the Wareham Gatemen of the Cape Cod Baseball League. Flynn also played with Gatemen.

Both gentlemen dipped their toes in the coaching water this spring, helping out their former coach Dwayne Follette with the Plymouth North baseball team.

"In addition to our strongest team yet on paper, we are excited to be able to add

Fans will again flock to Forges Field this summer to see the Plymouth Pilgrims in action. WICKED LOCAL PHOTO / DENISE MACCAFERRI to our coaching staff," Fey said. "It's been a long off-season and we're ready to get going."

The Pilgrims are bringing back a couple of familiar names this summer, Plymouth North graduate Brian Christian (Northeastern) and Vincenzo Aiello (Rider University), to bolster the pitching staff.

There will be many new faces in town this summer as players begin the long road that will lead them from college baseball standout to MLB superstar.

Pitcher/1B Cole Gordon has been solid as a freshman at Mississippi State.

Outfielder Cody Thomas, a tremendous athlete and who is also the backup quarterback at the University of Oklahoma

First baseman Troy Siever (St Leo's) was recently named a Division II First Team

All-America honoree and is a finalist for the Tino Martinez Award, given annually to the best Div. II baseball player in the nation. The junior is hitting .457 with 16 homers and 56 RBI.

In addition to Christian, the opening day roster will include seven other players from New England, six of them pitchers. The local list includes Raynham's Jack Connelly (University of Notre Dame) and outfielder Ben Gibson (Quinnipiac University), who is a native of Sagamore Beach.

For more information and a full schedule of games and events this summer for the Plymouth Pilgrims, go to their website at <http://www.pilgrimsbaseball.com/> in the final two minutes and Alex Ferguson netted his lone tally with 28 seconds left.

Cohasset sophomore Kyle McPetridge (two goals) broke the ice to give the Skippers an early lead, but Getto settled into the game stopping six first-quarter shots.

"My defense was giving me outside shots a lot of the time which always helps," said Getto. "I got a few outside shots at the beginning of the game so that really just got me in a rhythm and carried me through the game. It's always really important to make those first few saves."

"We'd go down, they'd make a save and it would come the other way," said Cohasset coach James Beaudoin. "That's kind of how it ended - they got a few goals off some bad transitions." Getto robbed McPetridge of what would have been his second tally of the day with a one-on-one save following a pump fake at the doorstep of the goal. Getto's stop led to a Ward tally on the other end.

"Without him in the goal, there's no way we could have pulled that out," said Stolp. "The whole defense did a great job. All the long poles did a really great job locking down their men but Caleb, he keyed on the ball every time."

Less than a minute after McPetridge's opening tally, Norwell tied the game on a Jon Lockwood goal and 22 seconds later Chris Bickford (goal) found Ward to give the Clippers a lead they wouldn't give back. Cohasset sophomore Noah Froio cut Norwell's lead to 5-3 with 38 seconds left in the first half with a well-placed shot. McPetridge, off a pass from John Donohue, opened the second-half scoring to bring Cohasset within one (5-4) in the third quarter but Norwell responded with three consecutive goals.

The Skippers graduate 12 seniors, including captains Maxwell Fitzgerald, John Donohue and Axelson.

"They've changed the culture of the team over four years," said Beaudoin. "They've made us much better over the years."

Cohasset played one of the state's most difficult schedules this year, taking on a number of top-teams in the state and beyond.

Among the teams Cohasset faced were Div. 1 South Sectional No. 1 seed, BC High and the Div. 2 South Sectional No. 1 seed Hingham. They also played Bishop-Guertin, one of New Hampshire's top teams.

New England Interscholastic Golf Tournament, which will be held at the Brentwood Country Club in Keene, N.H., on Wednesday, June 24.

The top 20 individual performers advanced.

Moy said she was certainly feeling the pressure at first, given the stakes, but that she settled down after the first three holes.

"You have one bad hole and it kind of messes you up a little bit," she told the Patriot Ledger. "It takes you a little bit to get back to where you were. At the end, you're just so exhausted."

Moy qualified for States by firing an 88 at Sectionals.

On the tennis courts, the girls tennis team was eliminated by No. 1 seeded and undefeated (18-0-1) Martha's Vineyard 5-0.

Wednesday June 8 at Martha's Vineyard in the Division 3 South Sectional Semifinal.

The girls finished their season with a 15-5 record and a 2-1 mark in the tournament.

Cohasset started the tournament with a 4-1 win over No. 12 Bourne (9-10), then followed with a 3-2 upset, come-from-behind victory at No. 4 Monomoy (17-4).

The girls won the South Shore League Tobin Division.

The Skippers scored victories at third singles and both doubles teams in the Monomoy victory.

For Cohasset Caroline Van Etten and Holly Van Etten were named South

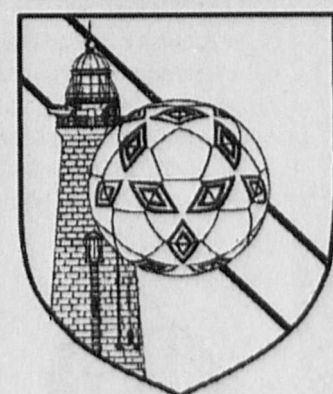

Shore League All-Stars at singles, and Nikki Federle and Ryan Spicer, and Maya Placek and Sophie Wolfe were named league all-stars in doubles.

Off the courts, the Cohasset High School athletic Hall of Fame's deadline for nominations for the 2016 HOF Class, team is Friday June 10.

GRADUATION

grade point averages were identical down to the hundredths place, have been best friends and academic teammates from the get-go.

When teachers asked the class to partner up for a group project, it was a given that these two would work together – although, looking back on a sixth-grade science project for which they built a model Earth out of yarn, Arnold said, "It was clear that our classmates who chose to use clay or Styrofoam – they were the smarter ones."

Inseparable as they were, Arnold and Stanganelli never saw themselves as a team of two. Rather, they were members of a 112-person team with all the other members of the class of 2016. Without that team, neither valedictorian would have achieved as much as she did.

Meghan Considine, voted Class Orator, agreed, though she would expand the team to include parents, teachers, and family.

"We are here today because we've been invested in," said Considine. "Thank you for second, third, and fourth chances."

Going forward, said Superintendent Barbara Cataldo, even a promising group of students like this one is going to need second, third, and fourth chances to accomplish their goals.

In the adult world, those chances won't come from others; they'll have to come from the students themselves. Having to try again isn't failure, said Cataldo. Success will take hard work, perseverance, time, and positivity, just like graduating high school.

Cataldo reminded students that J.K. Rowling, who today is world-renowned for writing the Harry Potter books and is richer than the Queen of England, spent almost a decade writing her first novel. She was on welfare at the time and going through a divorce. She sent "Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone" to 12 publishers and was rejected 12 times.

These students made it through over 54 million seconds of schooling in order to graduate, Cataldo said. She has no doubt that they, like Rowling, can overcome obstacles to achieve their dreams.

"You have proven yourselves," she said.

The class of 2016 is diverse. Considine compared her peers to a patchwork quilt, each one having his or her own interests and passions. Many are invested in the arts, music, and theater. Others are outstanding athletes.

The class as a whole is academically driven, according to High School Principal Carolyn Connolly, and they've demonstrated a huge amount of empathy, which many of them are carrying forward into "caring" careers like nursing and neuropsychology.

These graduates have always supported each other, but now they are going their separate ways to pursue their separate dreams. For Considine, it's bittersweet.

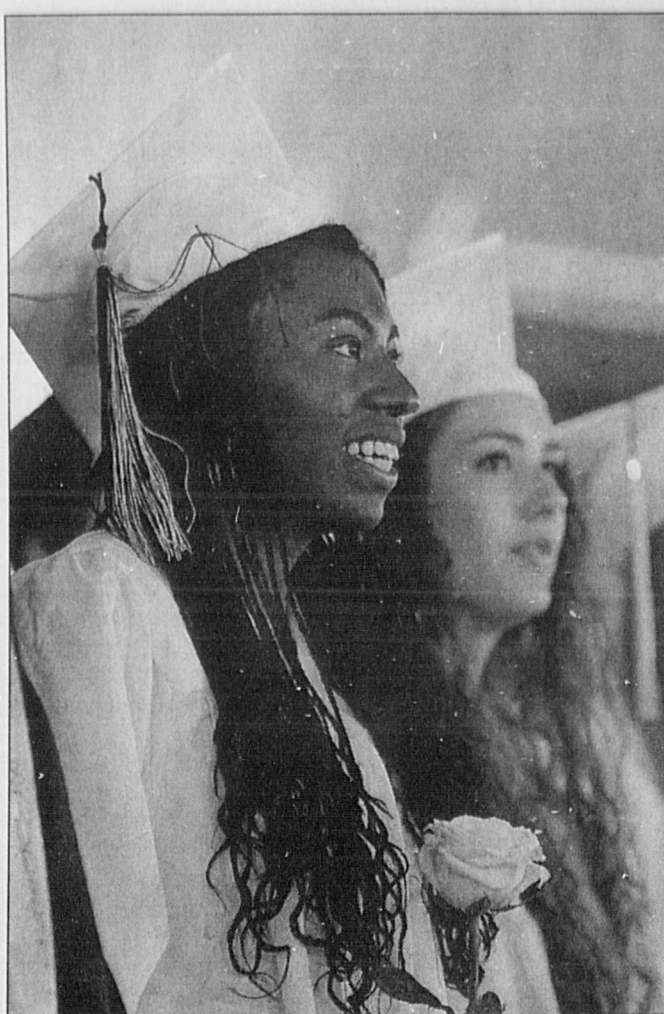

"Chapter one is finished," Considine said. "But the climax is never in chapter one. That's lazy writing, and even lazier living."

In the same spirit, Connolly encouraged students, "Pursue your passion, even if others say it isn't practical or it won't pay enough."

Some of those passions have grown and changed since this group of students first began their education together 12 years ago. Class President Dan Toomey remembered dreaming of the NBA back in Osgood. Back then, he said, dreaming was easy and nothing could get in the way.

Twelve years later, Toomey found himself at French Memories with his classmates and French teacher, fumbling his way through a conversation in French with owner Jean Jacques, trying to explain what he was going to make of his life. The answer didn't have anything to do with basketball.

Actually, the answer

didn't come at all until later. The question was innocent enough by intention; Jacques just wanted to know what Toomey would be studying in college. But it plunged Toomey into an existential crisis over his ham sandwich. What was he going to do with his entire life?

The answer he finally arrived at was this: he didn't know yet. Dreams change, and that's not a problem as long as the old, indomitable spirit stays alive.

"We may not be chasing our seven-year-old dreams, and that's okay; change is okay," said Toomey. He concluded by quoting the Desiderata by Max Ehrmann: "With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be cheerful. Strive to be happy."

And don't let anything get in the way.

GIMME SHELTER

Buttercup will melt your heart

By Tammy Hatch

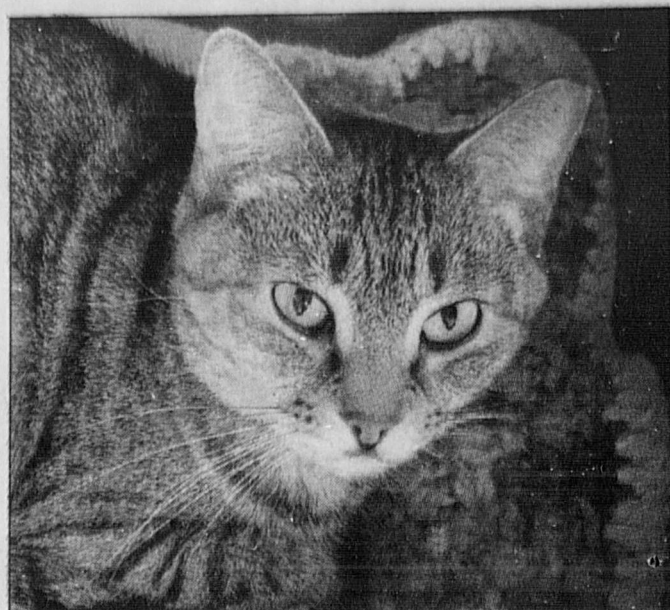

Meet Buttercup, a petite 2-year-old female tiger with an incredibly sweet and loving disposition. Buttercup was surrendered along with her housemate by owners who were moving and unable to take them.

Buttercup was born with a condition known as cerebellar hypoplasia (CH). CH is a neurological condition what does not get worse as time goes on and it is not contagious. Buttercup has an underdeveloped cerebellum, the part of her brain that controls her fine motor skills and coordination. Her cerebellum most likely did not develop properly because her mother was exposed to the FPV virus while she was pregnant. The distemper vaccine protects against this virus.

Buttercup has walking and balance problems as well as a head tremor. Because she was born with CH, Buttercup has grown up not knowing she is any different and has managed to adapt her ways and activities to accommodate her balance challenge. She's a little acrobat who will run, albeit wobbly, right over to say hello when she has a visitor, and once she has your attention she will rub against you vigorously then plunk down and curl up against you and purr with delight.

There is something very unique about a cat with CH that tugs at your very heart and soul. People well acquainted with CH kitties will tell you that they are by far some of the sweetest you'll ever meet and our little Buttercup is no exception.

Adopting a CH cat does require that you make some considerations: cats with CH don't jump very high so they'll need accommodations in place for getting up onto a couch, bed or to sit in a favorite window. The plus side of this limitation is they won't be able to jump up onto your tables and kitchen countertops.

Due to physical limitations a CH cat absolutely must remain indoors at all times. Because of their limited mobility, CH cats do better in a smaller home and stairs will need to be gated to prevent what could be a fatal fall. Carpeted flooring is preferable to wood as it provides better traction and a softer place to land when tumbling over.

Buttercup has used a large covered litter pan with great success and also prefers to eat her meals off a plate. She drinks her water from a bowl that's held down with firm rubber grips.

Buttercup needs an owner or family who are able to commit to her care by maintaining the accommodations she needs. What you will get in return is love from a very special little girl who will continually melt your heart with her giving nature and unconditional adoration for you.

You can learn more about Buttercup as well as the other cats and kittens we have available for adoption by visiting us online at www.hsar.org or by visiting us at our new location, 487 Nantasket

Ave., Hull. Open hours are Monday nights, 6:30 to 7:30, and Saturdays, 2 to 3 p.m. If these times are not convenient for you, special appointments can be made by calling our adoption coordinator at 781-534-4902.

How to help

HSAR is a non-profit, no-kill organization and we rely heavily on your support and donations. Cats like Buttercup would not have a chance at life at another shelter. Won't you please consider donating towards the care of our cats and kittens? It's easy, just log onto our website and click donate now from our home page, or, if you prefer, you can mail a donation to us at PO Box 787, Hull MA 02045. A special thank you to the people who donate regularly and to the individuals and families who give above and beyond our adoption fees. Every dollar we receive goes towards the care of the cats that remain with us while they await adoption to a forever home. HSAR is a 501(c)(3) non-profit, tax exempt organization. Thank you for your support!

Local Band to play at Legion Hall

Wheelhouse Rodeo, a Cohasset bluegrass band, will be taking the stage at 8 p.m. Friday (June 10) at the American Legion Hall on Summer Street.

"The band is an eccentric group of players playing an eclectic mix of music," notes Joe Joyce, co-founder. "We all grew up with the Dead and the Stones, and now it is fun mixing our classic rock heritage with more traditional bluegrass tunes and even some other numbers straight out of left field."

Peggy Hassan

HINGHAM – Peggy Wood (McGonnigal) Hassan, age 91, of Hingham and Cohasset died peacefully at home on Monday, May 30, 2016 surrounded by her loving family.

Peggy was the beloved wife of the late Samuel Hassan and a loving and devoted mother to her five children: Linda M. Hassan and Tom Moore of Canterbury, N.H., David A. Hassan and Jane of Cohasset, Samuel Peter Hassan and Donna Denaro of Cohasset and Medford, James A. Hassan and Christina of Cohasset, and Aaron R. Hassan and Meredith of Cohasset. Grandmother of Colin Moore of Brighton, Brett Hassan Seidman (Aneela Manori) of Sherman Oaks, Calif., Leslie Hassan-Seidman (Nathan Huber) of Santa Rosa, Calif., and Emily Wood Hassan Seidman (Mario Santana) of Jersey City, N.J.; Joshua Hassan (Julie) of Cohasset, Elizabeth Hassan of Hanson, and Sarah Belz (Erik) of N.Y.C.; Kathryn and James, and Aaron of Cohasset. Peggy is predeceased by grandsons, Benjamin and Thomas Zubricki of Medford, and granddaughter Christy Arnold. She is survived by five great-grandchildren: Joshua and Samuel of Cohasset, Victoria and Mathew Zubricki of Medford and Nova Hassan-Huber of Santa Rosa.

In addition her husband, Peggy was predeceased by her parents, Thomas and Marion (Sweet) McGonnigal, and by three siblings: Thomas McGonnigal, Janet Boone, and Susan McGonnigal. She is survived by her sister, Helen Schriener of Grand Rapids, Mich., by her brother Alan McGonnigal (Lillian) of Bradford, N.H. and by many nieces and nephews.

Peggy was known for her warm smile, her open heart, and her keen sense of intuition. She was generous and gracious with her time, energy and faithful support. As an inspiration to many, her legacy includes an especially strong belief in and commitment to 'fighting' for peace and social justice, and her life was guided by a strong sense of purpose and passion. As one of the first women to work in the drafting department at the Fore River Shipyard (where she met Sam, the love of her life), she exemplified her "girls can do anything boys can do" belief, and "if you don't like something then do something about it" inspired her to work tirelessly to not only elect the first openly gay member of Congress, but to also put her feet where her heart was and at the age of 80 was among those who held signs of protest ("No Blood for Oil") on the town common. One of her nephews described her as a feminist and a progressive long before these words were common in our vernacular.

She was proud of her Scottish heritage and spent years researching her family history. She was delighted by her membership in the Mayflower Society and created notebooks for each of her children that trace her Wood and Sweet family genealogy back to 1278.

She will be fondly remembered for her great home cooking, her love of reading, her storytelling, her beautiful voice, her love of ginger marmalade, and her passion and unending love for her family. See 'ya later alligator, in a while crocodile. Mumma/Gramma/Auntie/Friend will be loved always and will be missed forever.

Visiting hours Thursday, June 2, 2016 from 4 - 7 p.m. in McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home, 160 So. Main St. (across from St. Anthony Church), Cohasset. A memorial service held on Friday, June 3, 2016 at 2 p.m. in the First Parish Unitarian Church, 23 No. Main St., Cohasset, MA. 02025. Interment private.

Sudoku

Level: HOO BOY!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HOROSCOPE

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A heads-up alert to all free-spirited Ewes and Rams: Be wary of a deal that could result in compromising your independence. Check every detail before making a commitment.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) New facts emerge that help put an irksome workplace situation in perspective. Meanwhile, pay more attention to a family member who needs your wisdom and strength.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A slight setback in plans is nothing to worry about. Use this delay to deal with a number of matters you might have ignored for too long. Expect news from someone in your past.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You're entering a period of stability. Use it to straighten out any outstanding problems related to a very personal situation. Also, pay closer attention to financial matters.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) As much as you love being a social Lion, you might well benefit from staying out of the spotlight for a while. You need time to reflect on some upcoming decisions.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A difficult family situation improves, thanks to your timely intervention. You can now start to focus more of your attention on preparing for a possible career change.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) An on-the-job change works to your benefit by offering new opportunities. It's up to you to check them out. Meanwhile, a stalled romantic situation starts up again.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) That flare-up of Scorpion temperament cools down, leaving you more receptive to suggestions about changes that might need to be made in your personal life.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) An unusual period of indecisiveness is a mite frustrating. But things soon clear up, allowing the sage Sagittarian to make those wise pronouncements again.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might feel that you know best, but it's not a good idea at this time to try to force your opinions on others. Best advice: Inspire change by example, not by intimidation.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Some setbacks could affect your plans to fortify your financial situation. But things start moving again by early next week. Meanwhile, enjoy your resurgent social life.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Show that often-hidden steely spine of yours as you once again stand up to an emotional bully. You've got the strength to do it, especially as friends rally to your side.

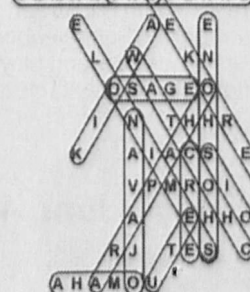

BORN THIS WEEK: Your ruling planet, Mercury, endows you with a gift for writing. Have you considered penning the world's greatest novel?

HOW TO SUBMIT YOUR CALENDAR EVENT

Here are some tips on getting your event information posted to the Wicked Local calendar and included in this regional calendar:

REGISTER: Find the Events Calendar on your Wicked Local homepage in the bottom right portion on the website and click on the Add Event button. Click the Register link in the top right hand corner of your calendar page, above Add Event. Enter an email address, first name, last name, password, and password confirmation. Once you click "Register," a verification email will be sent to the email address with which you registered. Be sure to confirm your account through that email to complete the process. Once registered, you will have the ability to add events.

ADD AN EVENT: Click the Add Event button. Fill in required fields such as event title, date, time, category, and venue. Events may be set up to repeat daily, weekly, monthly, or by manually adding additional dates.

ADDITIONAL NOTES:

■ The more detail the better in the event description field and there is a section to provide optional contact information.

■ Categories are important for tagging events with discoverable search terms and eases a visitor's ability to find the type of events they are looking to attend. An event can have multiple categories.

■ Events must be matched to a known venue. You can also add a new venue if your venue is not listed.

■ Events are subject to review before appearing on the site.

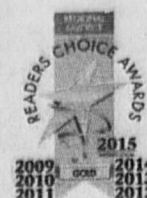

IMAGES: Make sure to include an image with your event. Events with images command three times the attention than those without. EvieSays uses a simple image uploader with options to drag and drop or browse, so adding images to your event is easy.
